Bensalem police, determined to eliminate every danger within

Good Evening!

Already the symptoms — political fever.

The Bucks County spring primary should be a mighty interesting one, considering the party splits, early - bird maneuvering, and aspirations of a lot of folks for public office.

Already the indications point to more candidates than people.

Our profound apologies to Mr. Jack Nicklaus, of whom we spoke a wee bit snidely yesterday as the Palm Springs Golf Classic playoff began. He gave Gary Player, who was supposed to win, quite a licking.

If he keeps going, he may well be this year's Mr. Golf.

More moderate weather and continued moderate it will be for a few days, says the man who knows about such things. Maybe over winter's hump?

We dunno. But those mocking birds warbling all over the lot this early a.m. certainly weren't cheering on another snow storm or deep freeze.

Canada continues to be pretty well shaken up over U.S. insistence that it look after its defenses. Uncle Sam's objective right, his approach a bit on the crude side.

However, whether she likes it or not, our neighbor is nearly going to have to be something more than the weakest link in the continent's defense system.

And a political crisis brewing in Germany as Vice Chancellor Ludwig Erhard challenges Adenauer's judgment in signing the recent cozy German-French cooperation pact.

Affairs of Europe for the next year or so should well be interesting.

At most cocktail parties it's the crowd that's filled to capacity.

A swelled head never hurt anyone — it's the shrinking that's painful.

If you drive, be careful.

KENNEDY URGES LOCAL MENTAL HEALTH UNITS

Outlines Plan For Retarded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Radical new plans for cutting the nation's mental hospital population in half and preventing thousands of new mental retardation cases were submitted to Congress today by President Kennedy.

The program, built around hundreds of new, comprehensive community mental health centers, would be costly—running into hundreds of millions of dollars when fully implemented by the states. But the President said in a special message, "We can procrastinate no more."

Over-all costs for beginning operations were included in the Chief Executive's $98.8 billion budget submitted last month for fiscal 1964. With his message today the administration proposed four pieces of new legislation which would involve $31.3 million in new obligatory authority from Congress at this session.

Kennedy pointed out that mental ailments now cost the taxpayers more than $2.4 billion yearly in direct public outlays for services—about $1.8 billion for mental illnesses and $600 million for mental retardation. On top of these public costs are even higher indirect public outlays in welfare costs and wasted human resources, he noted.

"The time has come for a bold new approach," the President said.

He conceded the need for postponing new domestic programs and reducing government expenditures if possible at a time when he is attempting to get Congress to cut taxes.

"But we cannot afford to postpone any longer reversal in our approach to mental affliction," he added.

The President asked prompt

Heart Appeal Meaningful To 2 Mothers

When the 1963 door-to-door Heart Fund drive begins on Feb. 14, in Lower Bucks, the campaign will have particular meaning for two of the canvassers.

Mrs. Paul Chaykin, 225 York-shire Road, and Mrs. Robert Hreso, 203 Wyandotte Road, both of Fairless Hills, are mothers of children who have heart conditions.

Bill Chaykin, 5, had his heart valve disorder corrected three years ago in an operation at Children's Hospital, Philadelphia.

Suzanne Hreso, seven months, will have to undergo such an operation before her fourth birthday.

Mrs. Chaykin is chairman of the heart drive in Fairless Hills and Mrs. Hreso is a volunteer in the drive. Mrs. Chaykin said the drive for funds lasts throughout February, although the door-to-door canvass will run from Valentine's Day until Feb. 24, which is called "Heart Sunday."

Funds collected go for heart research and to financially aid par-

April Crusade

Cancer Drive Named In Honor Of Tom Juno

The April Crusade of the American Cancer Society in Lower Bucks County will be named in honor of the late Tom Juno.

This announcement was made today by Dr. Lester G. Steppacher of Levittown, president of the Bucks County unit of the society.

Mr. Juno died last Nov. 19 of cancer. He was 50 years old and had carved out two successful careers for himself — one with the postal service, rising to assistant postmaster of the Bristol Post

Balmier Tomorrow

Cold Wave Over, Mercury Climbing

A warm air mass from the southwest broke the back of the prolonged cold wave today and gave Bucks County one of the most pleasant weather days in weeks.

The mercury started a rare climb during the night, reaching 29 degrees at 9 a.m. Four hours later the thermometer read 40 degrees and temperatures were expected to hit 45, accompanied mostly by sunny skies.

The outlook for tomorrow, according to the weatherman, is even balmy with the mercury expected to hit the 50s.

The warmup came as a welcome change for cold-weary Bucks Countians who suffered through one of the coldest Januaries in

In Morrisville

Tomlinson Cited For Police Bravery

Morrisville Borough Council unanimously agreed last night to present a certificate citing Patrolman Harry Tomlinson for his bravery during a recent robbery attempt.

Councilman Joseph Catania noted that Tomlinson "risked his life" when he apprehended a Negro man, after he stumbled onto a total of four men attempting to burglarize Cunningham's Hardware Store on N. Pennsylvania Ave. on Jan. 15.

The Trenton men jumped into a stolen car, tried to run down Tomlinson and bumped his patrol car as they tried to make a get-away. Tomlinson emptied his service revolver at them as they fled up N. Pennsylvania Ave.

When the stolen car crashed off Yardley Road in Lower Makefield, Tomlinson, who had followed in hot pursuit, brought out his riot gun and fired at the men as three of them fled on foot. He captured one man, who was dazed from the crash. One man was wounded and later gave himself up to police at a N.Y. Hospital. The two others were later captured by New Jersey police.

Borough Council voted to invite Tomlinson to the next council meeting on Feb. 12, and they will honor him with the presentation of a resolution to be drawn up by solicitor John Fedorko.

Diefenbaker Resignation Is Sought

OTTAWA (UPI) — Cabinet colleagues today moved to force the resignation of Prime Minister John Diefenbaker rather than throw the nation into a general election over the U.S. created nuclear weapons crisis.

The action was taken when it became evident the Diefenbaker government could not survive a confidence vote in the House of Commons on the issue of whether U.S. nuclear weapons should be allowed on Canadian soil.

It was understood that if Diefenbaker stepped down, the important Social Credit party would throw its support behind the remaining ministry and avoid any immediate dissolution of Parliament, which would then require a general election.

It was the latest in a series of political blows the prime minister has absorbed in the past two weeks following his tangle with the U.S. State Department on the nuclear arms issue.

His political opposition has repeatedly demanded his ouster, and Monday his defense minister, Douglas Harkness, resigned.

Six members of the cabinet, headed by Justice Minister Donald Fleming, were scheduled to see the prime minister in advance of this afternoon's meeting of Commons and present to him what amounts to an ultimatum, a well-informed source said.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green was understood to be the principal holdout in the cabinet against the prime minister's resignation.

Green was said to have advised the prime minister to take the initiative by dissolving Parliament before the House meets this afternoon and go to the country on the nuclear arms issue.

All three opposition parties were known to be ready to vote against Diefenbaker should he reject the demand to resign and decide to submit the issue to a confidence vote.

A huge hole was shot in Diefenbaker's support by Harkness' withdrawal from the cabinet.

The resignation, the first by a federal minister in circumstances of discord since a conscription crisis during World War II, confirmed speculation of a cabinet split on the nuclear issue and left a gaping hole in Diefenbaker's crumbling government.

$15,981 In Bids Awarded

Bucks County will have a police radio network system within ten weeks.

The County Commissioners gave final approval to the system this morning awarding bids totaling $15,981 for construction of a control center and three portable transmission receivers.

The Allen B. DuMont Laboratories of Clifton, N.J. won the bid for $13,881 for installation of the control center. The center will be located on the seventh floor of the county administration building in Doylestown, next to the Civil Defense radio room.

The award for three "handie-talkie" transceivers at $700 each went to Motorola Inc., of Chicago, Ill.

The commissioners voted to reject bids on other radio equipment because the bids did not meet specifications.

County Detective Thawley D. Hayman, who has been in charge of negotiations for the system, said that he hoped that every police department in the county would make use of the system. He said that the network would be coordinated with other nearby counties and cities such as Trenton and Montgomery County.

In other business, the commissioners rejected, at least temporarily, the county park board's plan for the acquisition of 90 acres of ground in Middletown Township.

2 To Die For Cheap Pies

MOSCOW (UPI) — Radio Moscow said today the director and manager of a Russian restaurant had been sentenced to death for making sub-standard meat pies and pocketing the money saved.

The radio said a district court in Sverdlovsk ordered the two men shot for cheating on the amount of fats specified officially for making meat pies, called pirozhkis.

The radio said accomplices of the two men received prison terms of up to 15 years.

The two sentenced to death were identified only as Akakiyev, the director, and Tereminov, the manager of the Sverdlovsk station hotel.

The radio said Akakiyev invented an automatic fryer which saved two or three grams of fat on each pie. The broadcast said the savings were not passed on to the customers in lower prices "but shared by Akakiyev and his accomplices."

It said Akakiyev pocketed $400 a month from the racket.

Falls Asked To Make Safety Controls Survey

School Board Looks Ahead-

Ex-Patrolman
To Seek Twp.
JP Position

PATRICK A. DUNLAVEY

By SCOOP LEWIS
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Patrick E. Dunlavey, of Croydon, former Bristol Township police officer, today announced his candidacy for justice of the peace in the township.

A Democrat, the 40-year-old Dunlavey will be seeking election to the six-year term now held by Rene J. Tritschler, also of Croydon. Tritschler, also a Democrat, had earlier announced his candidacy for re-election to a third term. His commission expires Jan. 6, 1964.

Dunlavey, who lives at 610 Linton Ave. with his wife and three children, joined the township police force in January, 1954. He spent more than eight years as a patrolman before resigning on April 24, 1962, to assume duties as manager of Playrena Roller Club, 802 State Road, Croydon.

Received Citations
During his tenure on the police force, Dunlavey was recipient of numerous citations, including the citizens' award. He designed the township seal and police flag, for which he was cited.

Dunlavey also helped in setting up the police department's communications and file system and attended numerous FBI and Police Chiefs Association courses as well as spending three months at the State Police Academy in Hershey.

Dunlavey has resided in Croydon since moving from Philadelphia in 1930. His brother, James T., who lives at 629 Patterson Ave., Croydon, is a former Bristol Township commissioner.

Croydon Resident
Dunlavey's mother, Mrs. Agnes Laycock, who for years lived on Rose Ave., Croydon, resides with her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Ciabattini of Bristol.

His step-father, Charles Laycock, died several years ago while working as a machinist at the Leedom textile plant in Bristol.

A veteran of World War II, Pat Dunlavey took part in the Allied D-Day invasion of Normandy Beach in Northern France on June 6, 1944, landing as a paratrooper with the 82nd Airborne Division. He was discharged in 1945 after serving six-and-a-half years in the Army, including 42 months in the European Theater of Operations (ETO).

Dunlavey, when speaking of his candidacy for JP, said "I like working with the public. It's been my life."

The Dunlaveys, who are expecting their fourth child, have two girls, Rita, 6, first grade student at St. Thomas Aquinas School, Croydon, and Patti Ann, 4, and a son, Patrick Jr., 3.

Falls AID
To Hold Dance

The Falls Township Association for Informed Democrats has announced a Pre-Lenten Dance to be held at Westaby Hall, Hood Blvd., Fairless Hills on Feb. 16. Dancing will be from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

Chairman for the event is Mrs. Dorothy H. Yohé. Committee members are Art Price, Kitty Afflerbach, Ed Howley, Pete Mulaney, and Ann O'Brien.

Tickets may be purchased at the door.

'Metaphysics'
Is Panel Topic

The work, "Discourse on Metaphysics," by the 17th Century philosopher Leibniz, will be discussed at the meeting of the Gr at Books Discussion Group of Levittown to be held tomorrow at 8:30 p.m.

The group will meet at the home of Presley R. Brown, 95 Quaker Hill Road, Levittown. Members and those interested are urged by the club to attend.

The school is being built in Penn Square.

The board unanimously passed a proposal calling on the township supervisors to make an immediate survey of the area to determine what safety controls are needed. The proposal also asks the supervisors to provide the board with a report of its findings and a list of the safety measures which the township will provide.

Lights, Guards
The board said it hoped the township would ultimately provide such safeguards as flashing lights and crossing guards. The board's prime concern is Makefield Road and the hazards caused by students crossing the road to and from school, particularly at the intersection of Makefield Road and Winding Way.

Commenting on the action, board vice president Richard Davis said the board was starting "none too soon" to begin its safety program since it takes considerable time to get safety precautions into operation.

A report on construction progress was presented at last night's meeting. The academic wing is now entirely enclosed, according to the report, and heaters are being set up so work can continue on the interior. The permanent water supply has been connected, heating pipes have been installed and tested in the academic wing, and the clocks and sound system are being installed.

Adlai Can't Attend
The board members and guests heard the disappointing news that Adlai Stevenson, United States delegate to the United Nations, would be unable to attend the building's dedication on Oct. 11.

"Th's will end shortly," Riemp said, "as soon as we can make the necessary arrangements."

Riemp said he can understand the economy of car pools and does not intend to discourage this practice, but that the motorists would have to find another place to park their cars.

"We're doing this in the interest of safety — to protect motorists like themselves from the kind of tragedy we've seen along this dangerous area."

Levittown Tot
'Battles' Glue

A Levittown tot found out — the hard way — that glue doesn't go well in your eyes.

Gerald Delbridge, 19-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Delbridge, 51 Old Spruce Lane, Oaktree Hollow, Levittown, discovered that when he got some glue in his left eye yesterday afternoon.

A hurried trip to Lower Bucks County Hospital in a Levittown Fairless Hills Rescue Squad ambulance was required to remove the glue and relieve Gerald's eye of inflammation.

Advisory Committee's
'Ghost' Seeks Answers

The Falls Township Advisory School Committee just refuses to go to a silent, quickly-forgotten death. Its ghost was still around last night, haunting the members of the Falls School Board.

Perhaps not its ghost, but at least its spokesman, in the form of Mrs. Dorothy Oppenheim. She came to last night's board meeting, claiming she was disturbed by the committee's break-up. The committee was dissolved recently and replaced by a Pennsbury Joint Study Committee.

In answering Mrs. Oppenheim, Falls Township School Board President Bernice Kessler, said she felt the advisory committee couldn't do full justice to the many vexing problems which faced the school system.

Would Keep Files
She said the new committee would keep files of "specialists" in various fields, and that when problems arose these experts would be appointed to special committees to solve the specific problems, then disbanded.

Mrs. Oppenheim objected to this feature — the disbanding of the committees — feeling a person couldn't get the satisfaction of continuous identity with a group.

Bradshaw Snipes, of the school board, also felt the joint study committee would be more effective than the Falls Advisory Committee. He cited the high drop-out rate of the latter group. He mentioned also that the committee often discussed matters that were unimportant or that were taken up previously in school board meetings.

Mrs. Kessler said many women who consider themselves "just housewives" would be surprised to discover that they have many talents which can be utilized by the new committee. She said extensive questionnaires which the committee is now preparing will reveal many of these talents.

"Many housewives will be consulted when the need arises," Mrs. Kessler said.

Mrs. Oppenheim then dropped her objections with: "I guess I'll try to go along with one of the committees if I'm contacted."

Three Propose Fifth Judge
Attributing their action to rapid population growth and a change from fifth to third class status for Bucks County, the county's three state Assembly members proposed yesterday that a separate orphan court be established and the creation of a common pleas judge be made in the county.

Sponsors of the measure were Reps. Margarette S. Kooker and Alan D. Williams, both Republicans, and James J. A. Gallagher, Democrat.

Stevenson's letter of apology as read.

The board had invited Stevenson as well as members of the Roosevelt family. No reply has yet been received from the later.

T. S. Cadwallader, the board's solicitor, reported that action has been started to get right-of-way for tying-in the school's sewage facilities to the sewer lines at Woolston Drive.

Assessment Issue
Cadwallader also reported on the progress of the school board's and township's re-valuation of the Fairless Works. He said the firm conducting the valuation will have its report in about a week. The assessment issue goes to court March 4 in Doylestown before Judge Edwin Satterthwaite.

The school board and the township are protesting the 1963 assessment of the Fairless Works, claiming the valuation on which it's based is not high enough. U.S. Steel is also protesting, claiming the opposite.

Playground Report
In other action, the board heard a report on plans for constructing a playground area at the Oxford Valley School, Fairless Hills.

Robert Hubbard, administrative assistant of the Pennsbury Schools, said the total cost — including moving of earth, laying topsoil, and seeding — would be about $23,260.

The board voted to table action on the playground area until the budget talks are held at a later date.

The board also opened bids for installation of sewage facilities at C.E. Brookview Elementary School, Pennsbury Heights. The board's decision will be made Monday at its special meeting prior to the Pennsbury Joint Board session.

The school board salary for Mrs. Dorothy C. Struble, wife of township tax collector Dave Struble who died recently, was discussed at the meeting. The board had previously appointed Mrs. Struble as its tax collector. Her 1963 salary, to be paid in advance, totals $4,927.56 net.

In final action, the board called on the little League of Levittown to report by Monday whether it agrees to the revised plans for the building to be erected at the Village Park School site, Fairless Hills. The supervisors, in approving the plans at their last meeting, stipulated the building could be used only for storage since it was to be built without toilet facilities.

Levittowner
Hurt In Crash

A Levittown woman was slightly injured in a two-car accident last evening in Bristol Township.

Mrs. Myra Memis, 21, of 81 Gamewood Road, Goldenridge was riding in a car operated by her husband, Irving, 24, when the mishap occurred at 5:20 p.m. on Edgely Ave. at Red Cedar Pass, Levittown.

Patrolmen Gerald Sternich and John Harmon reported that a car driven by Adolph Knetler, 45, of 378 Blue Ridge Drive, Levittown, skidded on an icy patch in the road and hit Memis' auto.

Police said Mrs. Memis was injured, but went to her family physician for treatment.

Hospital Unit
Slates Meeting

The Fairless Hills unit of the Lower Bucks County Hospital auxiliary will meet tomorrow at noon in Yard's restaurant, Fairless Hills Shopping Center, Fairless Hills.

Mrs. Charlotte Hindle, chairman of the ways and means committee for the auxiliary, will speak on the functions of the committee.

IBM Machines
Cause Delay

The installation of IBM machines in county offices may have speeded up business in some quarters, but it has caused a delay in the mailing of county employees W-2 tax forms.

Mrs. Lillian B. Jacobs, deputy controller, said that the conversion to IBM machines has caused a delay because the system uses "punch cards."

By Federal law, the tax forms should have been mailed to the county's 700 employees by Jan. 31. Most of the forms would be mailed today, she said.

"It's very complicated," Mrs. Jacobs said in explaining the delay. "We had to take off people who left the employ of the county and add people who started jobs."

20 Bucks Officials
Attend Convention

Urban renewal is the lifeline which has saved Pittsburgh from decay and ruin, Pittsburgh's Mayor Joseph Barr said yesterday in his welcoming address to approximately 750 delegates attending the 41st annual convention of township supervisors.

The three-day session is being held in the Pittsburgh Hilton Hotel. Many Bucks County officials are attending.

Mayor Barr said a record of declining assessments and decreasing tax rates was reversed by an ambitious, well-planned renewal program at little cost to the taxpayers of the city. Mayor Barr also told the delegates that no community can live in a vacuum, that each municipality must cooperate with its neighbors for the common good of all.

Twenty officials from Bucks County, led by County Association President John J. Welsh of Upper Makefield Township, are registered as delegates. Others are: County Association Secretary Rita Anne McDonald of Warminster Township; Supervisor Milton Berkes and Edward Howley, Middletown Township; Supervisor Joseph Canby; Lower Makefield Supervisor William Mackenson and Planning Commission Chairman Ronald Smith; Bensalem Township Supervisors William Mullin and Joseph D'Ambrosio; Solebury Township Supervisors Marc Walton and Alfred Neal; Buckingham Township Supervisors John Henry and Earl Rockefeller; Wrightstown Township Supervisor, Carl Church; Richland Township Supervisor Dennis Freed; and Warminster Township Supervisors Robert

Other speakers included Milton Delancey, association secretary, who stressed that the major aim of the supervisors organization was the preservation of local government, and Highways Secretary Henry Harral who outlined his proposal for the creation of a municipal highways committee composed of local government officials and charged with the responsibility of coordinating communications between municipalities and the state highway department.

congressional action on a broad national mental health program involving new legislation:

—To authorize grants to the states beginning in fiscal 1965 for establishment of comprehensive community mental health centers with the federal government providing from 45 to 75 per cent of the project costs and short-term grants for initial staffing costs. The federal government would provide up to 75 per cent of costs in early months and phase out such support in about four years. For this proposed system of community centers with facilities and staffs for all types of mental therapy, the President asked no funds in fiscal 1964 beyond the $4.2 million in planning grants requested earlier for the National Institute of Mental Health.

—To set up a five-year program, starting with $5 million in the next fiscal year, for project grants to stimulate state and local health departments in planning, initiating and developing comprehensive maternity and health care service programs. This was the heart of his plan to prevent mental retardation. Government officials estimated that half of the current 126,000 mentally handicapped children born each year could have been brought into the world as normal human beings with proper prenatal and post-partum care for mothers.

Revamp Of Welfare
Duties To Be Aired

Proposals of the State - Local Welfare Commission for reorganization of state and county welfare responsibilities will be discussed at a Bucks County Board of Assistance meeting on Feb. 14, John Spadaccino, board chairman, announced today.

State Senator Marvin V. Keller and Representatives Margarette S. Kooker, Alan D. Williams Jr. and James J. A. Gallagher will meet with members of the board. William B. Tollen, state commissioner of public assistance, will also attend the meeting, Spadaccino said.

The commission was created by the 1961 legislature and directed to prepare a plan for the proper division of public welfare responsibilities and functions between the state and the county, and to prepare legislation to carry out its recommendations.

Of interest to the Bucks County Board of Assistance is the proposal for the creation of a county board of public welfare.

By this proposal, county boards of assistance, institution districts in counties of the second, third, seventh and eighth classes and county child welfare advisory committees would be abolished and their powers and duties would be assumed by the proposed county board of public welfare.

ents whose children require treatment for heart disorders.

The motto of the heart drive is "Open Up Your Heart To Give So That More Will Live."

A "Heart Fund" rally for all of Bucks County will be held at the Warrington Country Club, Abnashouse Road, Warrington, at 6:30 p.m. today.

David A. Clarke, attorney, of 909 Pennsylvania Ave., Morrisville, will preside. Clarke is chairman in Lower Bucks for the traditional February appeal.

From Northern and Central Bucks will come Mr. and Mrs. George Zechman, R.D. 3, Kellers Church and Mrs. Walter W. Nieber, of 8 Old Windy Bush Road, New Hope. Zechman is director of education for the Bucks County Health Department. Mrs. Nieber is Heart Fund director in Central and Upper Bucks County.

Warner F. Haldeman, executive director of the Heart Association of Southeastern Pennsylvania, will be principal speaker.

Also present will be Joseph F. Creachan, of 430 Rosewood Ave., Langhorne, manager of the Morrisville Branch, Central Penn National Bank, and business and industry and special gifts chairman; Mrs. Frank Puckett, Washington Crossing Road, Newtown, publicity chairman; Stu Wayne, WBCB radio program director, special events chairman.

Also, other campaign leadership, including members of the Bucks County Committee and neighborhood chairmen.

Dr. H. Blake Hayman of Levittown will be guest speaker tomorrow night at the monthly first aid drill of the Levittown Fairless Hills Rescue Squad.

The drill will be held in the squad headquarters on the Newportville-Fallsington Road, opposite R 4 Cedar Drive. Dr. Hayman is slated to speak at 9:30 p.m.

Training For Area
Bus Drivers 'Slated'

A new driver-training program for Lower Bucks school bus drivers is being planned by the Lower Bucks County Chamber of Commerce safety committee.

At a meeting at the Pennsbury Inn yesterday, safety committee chairman Granville Miller, district plant superintendent of the Bell Telephone Co., suggested that all school districts in Lower Bucks be contacted to determine if the driver training program would be of benefit if added to their present training courses.

To Begin Immediately
Should the program be acceptable to area schools, the program development, with the aid of the Pennsylvania State Police, would begin immediately.

It was also suggested that this service be offered to small businessmen who may be operating one or two vehicles.

The committee will continue the safety surveys of schools, that were started last year. Wallace De Witt, past committee chairman and area supervisor, Rohm & Haas, said that surveys made in 1962 were well received by the schools, and many committee safety suggestions were adopted.

Thomas Peters, supervising engineer of the Levittown area for the Bell Telephone Co., was appointed committee secretary at the meeting.

Hears Plans

Members of the Bucks County Historical - Tourist Commission held the first of a series of conferences on the promotion of Bucks County recently at the Warrington Country Club with presidents of the county chambers of commerce. Present were William O. Kline, Central Bucks, and A. Marlyn Moyer Jr., Lower Bucks County. Also present was Miss Ann Dilanni.

Joseph D. Ceadar of the Historical - Tourist Commission and Mrs. Ann Hawkes Hutton, chairman, explained the organization, aims and program of the Historical - Tourist Commission. Mutual aims were discussed and constructive plans made for further cooperation.

Future Plans
The Bucks County Historical-Tourist Commission plans to hold similar conferences in the near future with representatives of the restaurateurs, hotel and motel owners, and other county organizations.

Also representing the commission were Mrs. Raymond V. Hennessy, John S. Neal Jr., secretary, Sara Maynard Clark, commission historian, and Mrs. Walter W. Robson Jr., executive secretary.

executive director, proposed that the site, located at Route 413 and Newportville-Fallsington Road, become part of the Mill Creek Valley Park.

Commission Chairman Edward B. Boyer and Commissioners John J. Bodley and Adolph A. Andrews suggested that Pierson first have the area appraised. When told that the acquisition might cost $200,000, Bodley questioned whether the board might be "dissipating a tremendous amount of money."

Boyer said that he first wanted to know how the county stood financially regarding the acquisition of other properties. The commissioners recently floated a bond for $1,400,000 for park purposes.

Minority Commissioner Andrews suggested that Pierson hire new appraisers and the two other commissioners agreed with him. Andrews complained that the present appraisers "think they are doing us a favor by giving us a low appraisal."

He was referring to the fact that in the past the county has had to pay more than planned in acquiring park land.

The commissioners accepted with regret the resignation of Col. John Richardson from the county Historical Tourist Commission. They voted to draw up a resolution expressing their appreciation of his work while on the commission.

that is collected will of course go directly to the society in support of its research, education and service programs.

This will mark the first time in the history of the Bucks County Cancer Society unit that the annual Crusade will be named in memory of anyone.

Special Committee
A special Tom Juno Cancer Fund committee is being established to work with the Bucks County unit. Named to the committee thus far are Lawrence M. Mulligan, Bristol postmaster, and the Rev. Matthew Finnegan, director of athletics at Bishop Egan High School, Levittown. The remainder of the committee will be announced shortly.

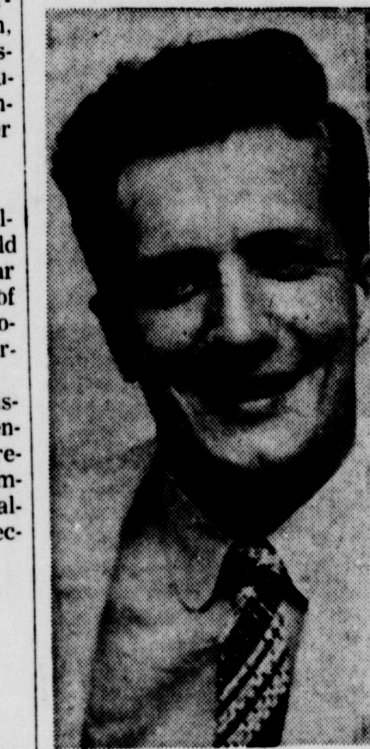

The committee plans to contact individuals and groups with whom Mr. Juno was associated in an effort to make the April Crusade more successful.

Mr. Juno's sports writing career spanned a period of 35 years. He started while he still was in high school and also served as official scorer and statistician for many softball, baseball and basketball leagues in Lower Bucks County.

Mr. Juno's associations included membership in the National Association of Postal Supervisors, National Association of Letter Carriers, Bucks County Postmasters Association, St. Ann's Athletic Association, Holy Name Society of St. Ann's Church and charter membership in the Benchwarmers Club of Lower Bucks County.

His residence in Bristol was at 1305 Wood St. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Maria Louise Juno; two daughters, Regina Maria, 22, and Roseanne Maria, 19; a son, Thomas Anthony, nine; four brothers and two sisters.

Oettinger
To Run

WILLIAM OETTINGER

William H. Oettinger, Middle-town Township Justice of the Peace, announced yesterday that he would be a candidate for JP in this spring's primary election. His term expires at the end of the year.

Oettinger, who has held office since 1955, is the first and only elected Democratic squire in the history of Middletown.

He was appointed by former state governor George M. Leader to fulfill the unexpired term of Eugene Sargent, who died in office.

Oettinger was elected to the position in 1957. He lives at 8 Spinythorn Road, Snowball Gate, Levittown. His office is at 1528 Trenton Road.

recent years. Between Jan. 26 and Feb. 2, the thermometer stayed below the freezing point (32 degrees) until late Saturday afternoon when the mercury reached 40.

Sunday's high was 39 degrees, but then another cold wave moved in, dropping temperatures down to a low of nine degrees yesterday. But the ridge of high pressure and the southwesterly flow of air brought temperatures up to a high of 27 degrees at 4 p.m. yesterday.

This morning's low of 25 degrees was recorded at midnight, after which the thermometer began its gradual climb.

Warmest day in the winter season was 52 degrees on Jan. 10. It was 47 on Jan. 23. The area experienced even warmer days shortly before winter made its debut. Those were on Dec. 1 when the thermometer shot up to 66 degrees and on Dec. 2 when it reached 58.
